

SELF-LEARNING MODULE (SLM) PROTOCOL

Purpose

The Self-Learning Module (SLM) is designed to encourage independent learning, critical thinking, and self-directed knowledge acquisition. Each SLM consists of four units grouped together and is intended to supplement classroom teaching and practical training.

Module Structure

- One Self-Learning Module (SLM) contains four related units.
- Students are expected to complete all learning activities, readings, videos, and exercises provided within the module.
- Completion of the SLM is mandatory unless otherwise specified by the course coordinator.

Learning Requirements

Students shall:

1. Review all learning materials provided within the module.
2. Complete the assigned readings and supplementary resources.
3. Participate in self-assessment activities, quizzes, or reflective exercises where applicable.
4. Maintain a record of learning outcomes achieved from each unit.
5. Submit any required assignments, reflections, or reports within the prescribed timeline.

Assessment

- Self-Learning Modules may contribute to continuous assessment as determined by the faculty.
- Assessment methods may include quizzes, assignments, case studies, reflective learning reports, presentations, or discussions.
- Students must achieve the minimum performance criteria specified for successful completion.

Completion Criteria

A Self-Learning Module shall be considered successfully completed when:

- All four units have been reviewed.
- Required activities and assessments have been completed.
- Any assigned submissions have been uploaded through the LMS/Student Portal.
- Minimum academic requirements have been satisfied.

Academic Integrity

Students are expected to complete all Self-Learning Module activities independently. Plagiarism, unauthorized collaboration, or submission of copied content is strictly prohibited and may result in academic penalties.

Certification

Completion of all designated Self-Learning Modules is required for successful progression and course completion where applicable.